DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Krinsky (U.S. Patent No. 6,354,212) and in view of Lourette et al (U.S. Patent No. 6,515,760).

Claims 1 and 4

- Krinsky discloses in Fig. 1 a length and height of various wallpaper pieces. Column 4, lines 28-36 discloses the printing of an image on the wallpaper. It would be obvious that these are the same size as to not waste paper printing.
- By using these values for all 6 in Fig. 1 pieces together, it effectively defines the size of the composite wallpaper.
- Krinsky does not disclose an assembly spacing. However, the secondary reference, Lourette, discloses in Figs. 5A-5D various overlapping regions (i.e. assembly spacing) that is used in combining the images.
- Krinsky discloses in column 4, lines 2-4 the resizing of an image to make it fit the actual wallpaper.
- Krinsky again does not disclose the assembly spacing but does show the merging of images in Fig. 1. Lourette discloses in Fig. 4 an entire image, which can be created from the portions as shown in Figs. 5A-5D. One can see that the various overlapping regions (i.e. assembly spacing) become part of the overall image. Depending on how one sizes the overlapping portion, it would be obvious to have the images plus the overlapping portion to equal the size of the entire composite image.
- Krinsky discloses in column 4, lines 28-36 the printing of the wallpapers.
- Claim 4 calls for the transferring of the image to a substrate, and then to another substrate. Krinsky discloses in column 4, lines 30-36 that a mirror image is created on a substrate, and then the mirror image is then transferable to a suitable wallpaper substrate. (i.e. two different substrates)

- Both references are in the art of creating a composite image from a plurality of smaller ones. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have used overlapping portions. The motivation would be to more easily fit together the various sub-images.

Claims 2 and 5

- One can see the combined images in Fig. 1 of Krinsky and Fig. 4 of Lourette.

Claims 3 and 6

- The overlapping regions in Lourette can read on orientation marks as they help an user create a composite image by lining up the various overlapping regions to the corresponding overlapping regions. Furthermore, using marks to combine images is well known – i.e. see Yoshihara (U.S. Patent No. 5,465,163 – Figs. 10-12).

NEW CENTRAL FAX NUMBER

Effective July 15, 2005

On July 15, 2005, the Central FAX Number will change to 571-273-8300. This new Central FAX Number is the result of relocating the Central FAX server to the Office's Alexandria, Virginia campus.

Most facsimile-transmitted patent application related correspondence is required to be sent to the Central FAX Number. To give customers time to adjust to the new Central FAX Number, faxes sent to the old number (703-872-9306) will be routed to the new number until September 15, 2005. After September 15, 2005, the old number will no longer be in service and 571-273-8300 will be the only facsimile number recognized for "centralized delivery".

CENTRALIZED DELIVERY POLICY: For patent related correspondence, hand carry deliveries must be made to the Customer Service Window (now located at the Randolph Building, 401 Dulany Street, Alexandria, VA 22314), and facsimile transmissions must be sent to the Central FAX number, unless an exception applies. For example, if the examiner has rejected claims in a regular U.S. patent application, and the reply to the examiner's Office action is desired to be transmitted by facsimile rather than mailed, the reply must be sent to the Central FAX Number.
